

Pork products brought by tourists from Asia tested ASF (African Swine Fever) gene positive

Since August 2018, there has been reports of ASF in several parts of Asia. At Animal Quarantine Service (AQS), we are conducting ASF genetic testing for pork products that were denied importation into Japan, from tourists arriving from such countries. Cases of being ASF gene positive are as listed below.

At AQS, we will continue to strengthen import inspections by utilizing Quarantine detector dogs, and allow Animal Quarantine Officers to interview more passengers arriving from such countries.
