

Cups Well Suited to Serving Sake

取材・編集: 北陸農政局
編集協力: 金沢国税局

Case 1

Wajima-nuri

Wajima Lacquerware is made in the city of Wajima, on the Noto Peninsula, and is known for the incredible technique that goes into each piece. While there are pieces of Wajima Lacquerware some 500 years old, the techniques used today were first established during the Edo era (1603-1868) and passed down from generation to generation by artisans, who continued to produce these practical works of art.

introducer

Cups for Well Suited

These guinomi cups are the result of painstaking work by different artisans, who specialize in shaping the wooden base material, applying the lacquer, and decorating lacquerware.

Shops in Ishikawa

Wajimanuri no Tsuda 30, Inarimachi, Fugeshi-machi, Wajima-shi, Ishikawa

URL <http://wajimanuri-tsuda.com/>

Kikuhime Limited
Partnership
Salesdepartment
Kouya Fukuoka

introducer

Cups for Well Suited

These cups were produced through a collaboration between Hakuto Brewery and a Wajima Lacquerware artisan, and are designed to bring out the best of the brewery's sake. The gentle warmth of Wajima Lacquerware makes it perfect for enjoying this sake.

Shops in Ishikawa

Konishi Shogoro Lacquerware Shop 1-148-1, Kawaimachi, Wajima-shi, Ishikawa

URL <http://konishi-shogoro.com/>

Hakuto Sake
Brewery
CEO
Kiichi Hakuto