A diagram of a rectangular structure. It features a central vertical line extending from the top to the bottom. At the top, there is a horizontal line segment that is part of a larger trapezoidal shape, with diagonal lines extending outwards to the top corners. Similarly, at the bottom, there is a horizontal line segment that is part of a larger trapezoidal shape, with diagonal lines extending outwards to the bottom corners. The central vertical line divides the main rectangular area into two equal halves.
